No, we definitely do not want to stop, neither us nor our friends at DumpClub 64 (Francesco Galluccio, Francesco Tosti, Alessandro Chini, Francesco Carandina and Roberto Lanciotti).

Our joint mission to recover and give new life to the semi-unknown software of the 1980s continues unabated. Our friend Roberto is a true bloodhound, able of unearthing games and applications buried in the meanders of time and among the dusty traces of thousands of floppy disks.

Actually his work resembles that of an archaeologist, who has to dig and remove the dust before giving birth to a valuable find. Unfortunately, it is not always possible to read all the data in diskettes more than 40 years old, but he always tries his best and we must thank him for what he's able to retrieve.

Some of you will object that it is getting harder and harder to find games or applications that have not yet been recovered, but Roberto and the DumpClub with their work teach us that unfortunately (or luckily...) this is not the case. There's still much to recover, catalog, discover, and share.

If you have in your hands tapes or diskettes gathering dust on a shelf, do the whole community a favor and lend them to the DumpClub to be digitized. In no time they will be read, the software recovered and made available to everyone on their site, and you will get them back. Myself, DumpClub 64, and the entire community of retrocomputing enthusiasts will be grateful!

Please share if you can!

Graphically WARGAMES would also look good, but I honestly didn't understand what to do in order to move forward in the game...
After intercepting the red missile over and over and stopping it before, in the third screen, it reaches and destroys the target, I find myself once again having to intercept the same missile...

Is this maybe not a full game but just a demo? The answer is up to you!

The greatest friend of the kids in the 1980s was definitely their own imagination. Unfortunately they didn't have the tools at hand to exploit their full potential. And that's where software like this Games Creator came in, perhaps a bit immature, but they were certainly a first step into making something original. Later would come new tools, far more comprehensive: "Who said S.E.U.C.K.?".
But that's another story...

DAMSEL IN DISTRESS

Who wants to help the Damsel who, as the title states, is in dire straits?

As in the best of traditions, the Damsel Princess has been kidnapped and taken inside a castle with dozens and dozens of rooms. Our brave protagonist has no choice but to explore them all in order to find his beloved princess, who in the meantime keeps shouting "HELP" to try to point his saviour in the right direction. A game of the past, in which the graphics certainly won't you jump off the chair, but the urge to complete the mission will be felt all right!

ROCKET ROGER

During our journey to explore the Universe, we found ourselves without fuel on the most inhospitable of the planets in the Sagittarius Constellation.

Luckily, this planet is rich in crystals of an unknown material that we will be able to use to power our spaceship and continue our exploration. Everything all right then? Not by a long shot.

To access the crystals we must travel the length and breadth of the planet, which to call inhospitable is an understatement. Asteroids, meteorites, robots and so on and so forth will stand between us and the precious material....
Few words then, jetpack on your back and move yourself along!!!

Legend has it that the famous Quentin Tarantino took his very first steps in directing precisely because of this Movie Maker... Well, obviously this is a joke completely made out now in order to find something to write about this program utility.
You probably won't become a filmmaker using it, but you can certainly spend a few hours having fun exploring the many possibilities this tool offers.
Enjoy!

BONUS GAME

LUPO ALBERTO

Lupo Alberto is crazy about Marta, the chicken, and is always trying to win her love. But his dream of romance is thwarted by the ferocious dog Moses, who chases him away from the McKenzie farm every time he shows up. Lupo Alberto is a funny and original character with a blue fur, red nose, and yellow eyes. From 1974 to the present, his adventures on the farm, along with the other animals, have made millions of people laugh, and even think. PAROLE CROCIATE

I am definitely a fan of Crossword Puzzles and finding them on our beloved "breadbin" can only make me happy.

When the computer asks you to set the amount of minutes you have to find the words in the puzzle, be sure to be very generous with yourself since some words are very difficult to spot!

Game language Italian only.

A balanced diet is based on the choice of foods to alternate in our diet. Diete Calibrate, a program in BASIC written by Domenico Antonelli, tried to solve this problem back in the 1980s.
Surely this program makes people smile now, but if we stop to think, 40 years ago it was not so obvious to be able to automatically calculate the nutritional intake of a recipe... An incredible historical find!

Italian only software!
